Lee is the General Manager and Vice President of Detroit Wrecker Sales. He manages the day-to-day operations to ensure that every customer has a world-class experience with Detroit Wrecker. He manages new production builds, the service, parts, manufacturing, and installation departments, as well as the growth of the company. He also happens to be a recent graduate of Lawrence Technological University, and has spent several years in the automotive industry. He also has experience working with logistics of new vehicle product launches, and works closely with Steve on research and development for new additions for products, as well as product platforms for the next generation of Detroit Wrecker products. Lee and Steve developed the Gladiator, Lil Hercules, numerous improvements like the safety valve on the Low Loader and the new LED Safety Lighting for trucks.

Nick is our service manager. He has 20 years of experience in the towing industry. He owned a fleet of ten trucks and serviced and maintained them himself, so he knows tow trucks and he knows truck ownership. He knows what truck owners need, and what they don't need. He identifies with our customers, he can answer their questions, and he keeps them on the road, efficiently, safely, and cost-effectively. Nick is also great at interpreting your service issues. He can listen to a customer describe the symptoms, then he troubleshoots the vehicle, diagnoses the problem, and determines what the vehicle needs. He is the Sherlock Holmes of diagnosing issues a truck is having, and the MacGyver of fixing service failures.
