

“The Largest Not-For-Profit National Trade Association Of Repossession Specialists Since 1936”

Bob Blanchfield

Bob Blanchfield has been a lawyer and business partner representing small businesses for twenty years. Bob has represented more than 200 businesses in litigation during the period. Through that experience, Bob has gained a unique ability to identify those steps a business can take to avoid getting tangled in time-consuming and expensive court cases. Bob spends considerable time helping business clients develop and implement a plan to reduce the risk of litigation. Bob graduated from the University of Alabama in 1985 and Rutgers law school in 1997.
