A Message from the President;

Allied is the LARGEST, OLDEST and only nationwide NOT-FOR-PROFIT trade association of independent repossession agencies. The members listed on the AFA website have passed our rigorous application and approval process. They are pre-screened for clients who are interested in locating professional repossession agencies.

Allied Finance Adjusters is committed to promoting industry excellence by providing learning opportunities for our members and clients. Each year we have a large annual conference as well our Midyear Meeting to further those goals. At these meetings we have educational seminars on issues impacting the collateral recovery industry such as the CFPB and FDCPA. Allied helps provide information and education necessary for our members to maintain their compliance, professionalism and be the leading operators within their communities.

Allied is an all-volunteer organization. Every member has a voice in the direction this association takes and they provide their knowledge, experience and time to elevate the professional standards of this industry.

Please take a few minutes to explore our state of the art, dynamic website. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact our home office, board of directors or any member you find on the AFA website.

Our members are allied together in the repossession business and with the clients that we serve.

Allied: The name that says it all!

Thank you, and stay safe out there.

Discharged from the service in 1946, Al went to work for the Bank of Ohio as a Collections Officer. While working at the bank, Al made friends with Paul Leleu, a member of Allied. Paul suggested that Al apply for membership and join Allied as a repossession agent as they needed a member in Cleveland. Al applied, was approved and left the bank to start his first repo business in 1952. He had an office in Cleveland and one in Youngstown, Ohio. In 1957 the membership for Allied in Detroit was available, Al applied, was accepted and then operated repossession offices in Detroit, Cleveland and Youngstown until 1960. Selling the Cleveland and Youngstown locations, Al moved his family to Detroit in 1961 where he operated Midwest Recovery & Adjustment Service until he retired in 1990. Midwest was one of the first repossession companies in the United States to offer 'Dealer Only' asset liquidation sales to the banking industry. In 1990 George Badeen along with partner George Kernan bought Midwest. George remains the owner today, as well as an 8 time annual President of Allied Finance Adjusters.

His education comes from California State University and various Junior Colleges in the State of California. In 1980 he resigned from the Compton Police Department and enjoyed one year of leisure before he decided to work in the investigation field. In 1982 he received his Private Investigation License from the State of California and soon after he attained his Repossession and Security Patrol License. He began his business as a Private Investigator with L A Private Detectives and Attorney Service. The business lasted until his official retirement at the age of 66. At the end of his career he decided to do what he likes best which is to travel the globe with his wife Cecilia Quintana before his time to retire to a wheel chair. Mr. Quintana stated that he misses his friends in the investigation and repossession industry and from time to time he would like to visit future conventions.

Having been born into the business, it is difficult to remember a time that I was not in some way involved in the repossession industry. My father Paul Leleu was one of the founders of Allied going back to 1936. He started his recovery business in 1930 in Chicago, Illinois. As children I remember my dad gathering my brother Paul Jr. and myself up, putting us in the back seat of the car while he and our mom would drive about the city locating and recovering collateral for the new industry they served, then called chattel lending now known as consumer lending. As time marched on and I grew my dad would take me to work with him where I learned how to sweep floors and clean bathrooms. I advanced to light filing and other duties such as cleaning up the storage lot and picking up the dog droppings therein. Later I was allowed the honor of inventorying the personal effects in the recovered vehicles and placing them in boxes for storage and ultimate release back to the owners. Then it was the making of condition reports and other functions of the business. When I received my learning permit to drive I was allowed to ride on the street with the real outside agents where I learned to hot wire ignitions, pick locks, make door calls and skip trace. When I was 16 years old I recovered my first car which is still imbedded in my memory. It was a 1961 Ford Starliner which was located at North Avenue and North Austin in Chicago. In 1965 I entered the US Army and after a 3 year tour of duty I returned home in 1968 and went back to work with my dad. I became interested in Allied in the early 70's and took my first office in 1975 as the Central Division Director. Through the years I can say that I have held every office in Allied Finance Adjusters as well as chaired every committee that was available. I took over the Chicago office for Allied when my dad passed away in 1979. So, as is evident, I guess that it can be said that I was born to an industry that I came to love and respect, literally working my way up from janitor to president and beyond. I would like to say that I hope that God blesses and keeps each of you in this industry safe and healthy forever.

Recovery Agents Benefit Fund (RABF)

The Recovery Agents Benefit Fund (RABF) is for you, your friends, your coworkers & your family. Need help? It's there when you need it.

The RABF is a non-profit charitable organization formed by repossessors for repossessors. Since 2002, it's helped scores of families by distributing hundreds of thousands of dollars to them in their time of need. It may have been due to the death of a repo agent on the job; to help the family with the medical bills left behind as a result of the loss of a loved one; or to make a payment on behalf of the family directly to a funeral home. (There are guidelines for qualifying you can review on the website on the 'Eligibility' page.)

While the reasons may vary, the purpose is always the same. To help our own in their time of need. The RABF is a federally registered 501c3 non-profit organization which is run by administrative volunteers who donate their time, talent and energy without pay of any kind. There is also an advisory committee which reviews every claim, manned by volunteers from repo associations across the US. Their purpose is to determine how this fund can best help those in our industry that are in need that qualify.

The RABF relies solely upon the generosity of others for their funding. Contributors who truly care about our industry are the individuals that keep this fund alive. You never know when you may need this help. No one does. The point is, that the RABF wants to be there when you need it. Please take the time to visit their website: www.RecoveryAgentsBenefitFund.org and read about what they do, and how they do it. Take a moment to visit the section entitled "Legacy". This section is new and is being devoted to those that are no longer with us. Perhaps you have someone you would like to submit for consideration.

Take a look at the long list of those that the RABF has helped in their time of need. That list by name is in the "Those We've Helped" section. Sign up for their free bulletins to keep informed on happenings within the RABF in our industry. Finally, if your circumstance permits, take the time to make a donation to this worthy cause. You, your friends and your family will appreciate it, and may even benefit directly from it one day. We never know what tomorrow may bring.

The History of Allied Finance Adjusters Conference

The Beginning:

Allied Finance Adjusters Conference, Inc. was founded in 1936 by eight men with a profound vision of the future. A few years prior to our founding a new financial instrument was initiated by the financial community known as Chattel Mortgage Lending. That instrument and the new mobility of borrowers at that time sparked the idea of coordinating a network of collection people to strategically locate collateral nationwide and assist lending institutions in recovering property from defaulted agreements. They had the first meeting in Saint Louis, Missouri in the summer of 1936. At that meeting this association was formally born. The name chosen was "THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE ALLIED FINANCE ADJUSTERS CONFERENCE." Following an election of officers, a blue print plan for the future was created. They pooled their money and invested in cooperative advertising. Thus the first finance adjusters' directory was printed and mailed to lenders across the country. It was printed on newspaper stock and mailed first class. Keeping in mind that this was the 1930's, all of this work was done by hand, the hands of our founders, all working together to reach one goal, serving the financial community.

1940's

As the years progressed the association began to grow in membership and in lender acceptance. Membership doubled and then tripled into the early 1940's. The members were becoming trusted "allies" of the financial community. All was going according to plan. The association was growing and they were holding annual meetings to discuss the direction of the association. All efforts came to a halt when the United States entered World War II.

Post War:

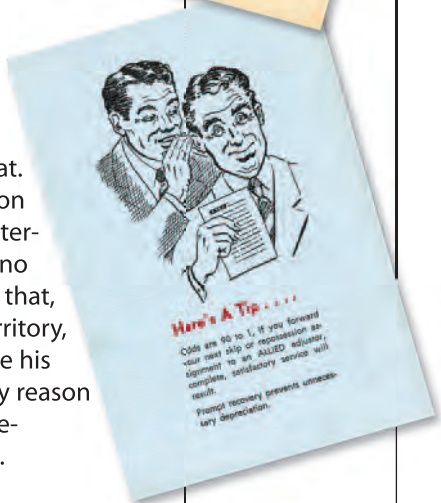

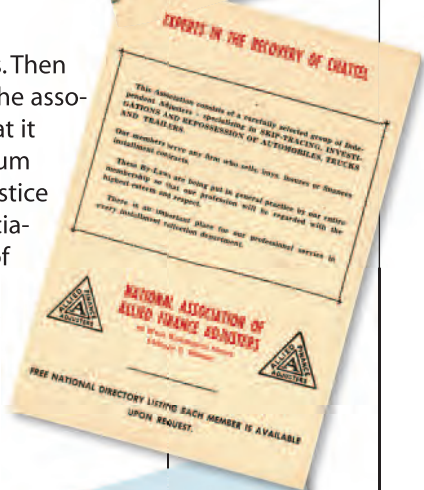

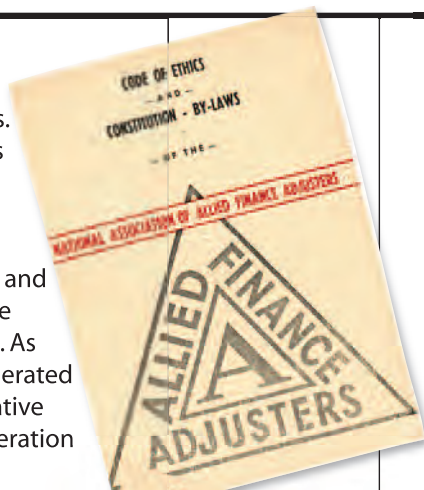

There was divisiveness in the ranks so strong the association split into two separate entities. The name of the association split as well. Thus the founding of Allied Finance Adjusters Conference and its offshoot National Finance Adjusters was spawned. The competition was healthy and both associations began to grow and prosper. Allied was incorporated in 1951 in the state of Illinois as a Not For Profit Corporation. As per the articles of incorporation, all funds generated by the association are to be spent on cooperative advertising, education, awareness and the operation of the association. Allied has no paid officers.

1980's

All was well within Allied for the past 25 years. Then due to circumstances beyond the control of the association the Department of Justice decided that it wrong for the association to publish a minimum price schedule for the services offered. The Justice Department brought action against the association and in addition was cited for a restraint of trade due to the association's exclusive membership. In 1980 Allied entered into a Consent Decree to eliminate publishing suggested rates and fees thus eliminating the problems dealing with the charge of price fixing.

1990's

Things began to settle down and Allied began to grow again. Much the same as the kids game of "King of the Hill", Allied was again threatened with a suit for restraint of trade due to its exclusive membership format. At a meeting held in the early 1990's a motion was brought from the floor stating that any territories that were open as of that date were no longer exclusive. The motion went on to say that, at the current members discretion in any territory, the member may, at his option, elect to make his membership non-exclusive. Further, if for any reason any territory becomes open, it shall not be re-opened as an exclusive. The motions carried.

Allied is now and has always been in complete compliance with the Consent Decree entered into in 1980. Since 2008, there are no exclusive territories and Allied has welcomed all applicants meeting its strict criteria. There are benefits to holding a membership in the Allied Finance Adjusters Conference, Inc. Those benefits are as always, cooperative advertising coupled with conventions that educate, inform, and encourage client participation and interaction. Allied also has a public relations program that sets up display booths at many Bank and Credit Union functions each year. Membership dollars go to fund these programs and not into the pockets of those who purport to be acting in your best interest. In 2006 Allied launched its new website.

In early 2011 Allied spent months revamping the AFA website, adding state of the art membership databases and search engine functionality, allowing the automation of the new member application process and annual membership bond issuance. The new secure and compliant client assignment portal uses no third party software. Allied's new website was designed and built with the client in mind.

In mid 2012, Allied and RSIG created the first ever "Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) Compliance Training" education program for its members. Allied also created a standardized "Federal Employee Handbook" for its members to further the professionalism demanded by legislation and the industry itself. By late 2012 CFPB was in full swing. Allied simplified the process of providing clients with its members compliance documents via the AFA Website. Clients can now view the members profile page and download their basic compliance documents with one click. This program is strictly voluntary and by mid 2014 over 3/4 of the members have participated in uploading documents.

2013 brought the first ever joint convention with Allied and RSIG. Located in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida the attendance exceeded over 400 vendors, speakers and repossessors. The event was the largest gathering in history. This same year Allied was the first trade to mail out two membership directories. The Annual directory was sent out to over 27 thousand banks, credit unions and financial institutions nationwide. The Midyear directory was mailed to over 14 thousand automotive new and used car dealers, buy here pay here and subprime lenders nationwide. In early 2013 over 41 thousand directories were put into the hands of clients. A industry first! Late 2013 AFA invited TFA and RSIG to attend their Mid Year Meeting. They offered CFPB Compliance training to all members.

In 2014 Allied again joined RSIG in Chicago, Illinois for their annual convention, breaking records and industry firsts run in the Allied family! The joint convention in Chicago exceeded 500 attendees. In Mid 2014 Allied introduced "The Star Recognition" program. Members are now recognized on the AFA website for their service and commitment to Allied. Members receive gold stars for; serving on the board of directors, being a committee chairperson or a divisional director and receiving an award. Members also receive a star noting the members years of continuous membership. This identifies to the client the members participation and ongoing commitment to Allied. At the same time Allied introduced the first membership interactive search map. Clients can now search by their customer's zip code, locate the closest Allied member, zoom in and see the Allied's member's physical office location via street view. Allied does not allow ghost or phantom member offices period. This is Allied's commitment to the truth in advertising to the lenders and clients. By late 2014 the Allied membership exceeded 300 members, actual members not offices or locations. Making Allied the largest trade to the industry by leaps and bounds!

In 2015 Allied released on their website the "State Facts and Requirements" pages. Clients and members can now search by state for the laws and licensing requirements regarding repossessions. The amount of data collected on these pages surpasses any other trade in the industry. In late 2015 Allied implemented the first ever Client login! Clients can log into the AFA website, add the members they have approved and manage their compliance documents. Clients will be notified of the members expiring documents and can contact the members directly through the system, make notes and much more. Another first in the industry!

RSIG Certified Recovery Agent (CRA) Training For Professional Repossession Agents

The field of self-help repossession is changing at a rapid pace. New and constantly evolving laws, client requirements, technology enhancements and account brokers are some of the many changes the industry must deal with on a daily basis. The cost of these changes and the nature of the services performed by repossession agents have increased the potential that unqualified and or uninformed repossession agents could seriously affect our industry.

The need to remain informed is most evident with the changing and evolving laws, which give the repossession agent the authority to practice his or her trade. Some states have mandated knowledge requirements including testing, such as California and Florida. Other states, such as Louisiana and Wisconsin, have unique laws regarding who can self-help repossess and what has to happen when self-help repossession occurs.

Many members of the repossession community have long held the belief that a certification program would enhance the legitimacy of self-help repossession as an alternative to the use of the judicial process option allowed by the law. It goes without saying that both clients and courts need more confidence in the competence of repossession agents before they will be fully accepted as legitimate and professional participants in the world of lending and law.

RSIG has been training repossessors for 30 years through our annual seminars, training seminars and most formally through our certification program now available online through the RSIG University at www.rsiguniversity.com. This is an online program available to students 24/7 when it is convenient for them. Our proctored exam ensures that the test taker is the one taking the test. The fact that our exam is not an open book test means that the student has to prove their retention of the information and not just their ability to look back and find it.

The obvious benefits of certification are professional satisfaction, peer recognition, risk avoidance and economic advantage. In addition, recognized certification provides the availability of an acceptable marketing tool, the creation of a nationwide group of specialists and the establishment of uniform standards.

The arguments in favor of such a certification program are that they would improve quality for users of repossession services and reduce risk making insurance coverage more available and enhance the prestige and legitimacy of the repossession field.

The industry has changed and needs to continue to change. Government is calling upon lenders to be more consumer conscience and lenders are passing those expectations to their repossession service providers. If you are not educating your workforce you are being left behind.

Like Allied, RSIG has a commitment to professionalism in our industry. We share the common interests of industry training and education. RSIG has made this training available to the entire industry no matter who their insurance carrier is, what trade association they belong to or which lending institutions they are employed by. It is through this training and education that we minimize the potential loss exposures of the repossession process for our businesses, our clients and our insurance carriers. The RSIG State specific certification courses have become recognized as the benchmark of repossession certification training. So much so that multiple State governing bodies have called upon RSIG, in request of guidance in developing their own laws and continuing education criteria.
